Educational Resources Catalog

California students are our number one priority. The California Department of Education has built an outstanding system of content standards and created an effective, credible system that holds schools accountable for educating all children. The resources presented in this catalog are designed to provide quality information for educators, families, and caregivers to enhance students' lives and ensure students' success in school and beyond.

The mission of the California Department of Education is to provide leadership, assistance, oversight, and resources so that every Californian has access to an education that meets world-class standards.

A Message from the California State Teachers' Retirement System

Dear Educator: We are pleased to participate in a partnership with the California Department of Education to bring this year's Educational Resources Catalog directly to your home. The CalSTRS Board agreed that this joint project would provide you with an excellent resource that might not otherwise be available to you.

I assure you that CalSTRS preserves the integrity and confidentiality of member records and maintains control of member addresses in a project such as this. Again, we hope that you will enjoy the convenience of receiving this resource.

Jack Ehnes
Chief Executive Officer
CalSTRS

Adopted by the State Board of Education, California's content standards were developed to encourage the highest achievement of every student. They define and describe the knowledge, concepts, and skills that each student should acquire at each grade level. The standards are comprehensive and specific and provide ample room for innovation and creativity. Also adopted by the State Board of Education, curriculum frameworks are the

Highlight on Healthy

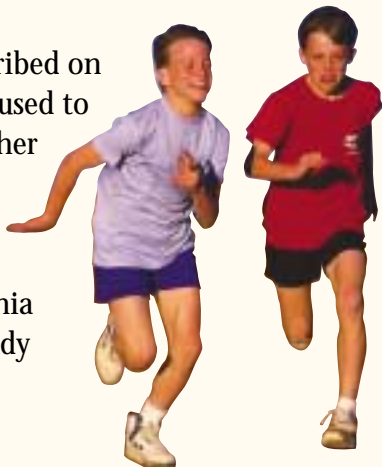

Healthy Children Ready to Learn

The California Department of Education recognizes the connection between children's health and their readiness to learn. The resources highlighted on these pages offer teachers up-to-date guidance on how they can promote their students' well-being and academic success.

In January 2005 the Department outlined a new initiative in a white paper titled "Healthy Children Ready to Learn" that emphasizes health education, physical education, nutrition, and a healthier school environment. The paper, which can be accessed online at <http://www.cde.ca.gov/ls/>, describes specific goals related to:

- High-quality health and physical education programs that equip students for healthy lifestyles
- Implementation of nutrition standards for all food and beverages sold on campuses
- Increased participation in school meal programs
- School environments that support students' health

The resources described on these pages can be used to attain these and other health- and safety-related goals to ensure that students in California are healthy and ready to learn.

Health Framework

This framework emphasizes health literacy for students—the capacity to obtain, interpret, and understand basic health information and services and the competence to use such information and services in ways that are health-enhancing. 2003, 264 pp.

California's Nationally Acclaimed Program for Infant/ Toddler Care

The Program for Infant/Toddler Care (PITC) has developed high-quality training materials based on sound theoretical principles and research. Developed for trainers, program administrators, and teachers of infants and toddlers, these materials spell out a responsive, relationship-based approach to care in which teachers learn to understand children's cues, interests, and skills and use them as the basis for an integrated intellectual, language, physical, and social-emotional curriculum. The importance of forming a close, caring relationship with each child and family is emphasized throughout the PITC materials.

Note: Infant-Toddler Caregiving Guides are now available in Spanish.

California Career Technical Education Model Curriculum Standards

The standards are organized in 15 industry sectors, or groupings, of interrelated occupations. Two or more career pathways within each sector allow students to apply academic standards and develop technical skills in a curricular area related to the career in which they are interested.

Available late 2005

Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve

The 2005 revision of the Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools continues its support of the mathematics content standards adopted by the State Board of Education in 1997. The framework maintains that all students should study Algebra I by grade eight. In support of this goal, and new in the framework, is guidance on the design of two types of specialized instructional mathematics materials for students having difficulty achieving at grade level: mathematics intervention materials, for students in grades four through seven; and algebra readiness materials, for students in grade eight or higher who are not prepared for Algebra I.

Providing a context for implementing a standards-based program for all students, the framework can help schools offer a standards-based mathematics program with balanced emphases on computational and procedural skills, conceptual understanding, and problem solving.

Physical Education Content Standards for California Public Schools Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve

The physical education content standards identify and describe the essential skills and knowledge that each student needs to acquire at each grade level to adopt and maintain a physically active and healthful lifestyle. Physical education is an integral part of the educational program. These standards provide guidance for designing and implementing a sequential, developmentally appropriate physical education curriculum.
